When I think of the word fashion CoCo Chanel comes to mind or Ralph Lauren. I love a classic look, but with a touch of whimsy. I love unique accessories or a statement piece like Chanel's pearls. I also think of fashion as a unique style. I love to see the outfits children put together and I'm inspired by their lack of self consciousness. When my own daughter wanted to wear something inside out with sparkly red sandals in 30 degree weather I wasn't able to find the humor in it. Now that she is a young teenager I miss the days when she wanted to dress up as a princess instead of dressing like she's 21.
