

Life is Like Coffee

I thoroughly enjoy a cup of hot coffee in the morning especially when there is a chill in the air. I just bought some new coffee cups at Target. My old mugs were made of stoneware and were no longer a crisp white on the inside. I finally got around to purchasing some white porcelain cups to match my new white dinnerware. You know something is past it's prime especially when you husband notices. As I sat admiring my new cups (it's the little things in life that make me happy), I thought about an email my friend sent to me. A video about how life is like coffee. It's message is a good reminder of how it's not what's on the outside that defines who are, but what's on the inside that counts. Click here to watch:

h

<http://www.flickspire.com/m/RecipeSecrets/LifeIsLikeCoffee?Isid=bd50fa1dcb00e2c4bbdfbada3de97995>

Date Created

2012/04/06

Author

queenie