

Travel Tips

Description

default watermark

20 iPhone Travel Apps

I've put together a few links to sites that I thought would be helpful for those of you who are traveling over Spring Break. Even if you aren't traveling, I'm sure one day you may be boarding a plane or traveling across the country by car. I've not personally used all of these apps, but I think there are some which will come in handy down the road. The first is a list of 20 of the Best iPhone Travel Apps according to National Geographic Adventure. One of my many dream jobs was to be a photographer for National Geographic. In case you're wondering, that dream never came to fruition.

Disney World

Another App which I used on our Spring Break trip to Disney World last year is called Disney Mobile Magic. It gives you the hours each park is open, the day's events, a guide map, dining guide and wait times for attractions. It was very helpful on our trip, but I don't plan on using it again for quite awhile. I wrote about our magical experience here. Let's just say we seem to pick the busiest times of the year to visit the parks.

luggage via

I donâ€™t know about you, but I find I pack either too much or too little when I travel. Travel and Leisure has a great list of packing tips broken out into categories on their website. If you need help in this area check it out here.

Happy Trails! Bon Voyage! Hasta La Vista!

Date Created

2013/03/07

Author

queenie