

Hipsters

Description

image via humor train

Hipster is defined as a person who follows the latest trends and fashions . My son thinks I'm trying to be a hipster because I blog. His teenage opinion thinks I'm way too old to be blogging. I've told him there are grandmothers who blog, and they have great blogs. The first one which comes to my mind is ZuHaus at Home.

Do you ever wonder what the people that take their computers to Starbucks are writing about? Maybe they aren't writing, maybe they're just surfing the internet. I always imagine they're writing the next great American novel or working on an English paper. When I got my first Apple laptop computer, I envisioned myself drinking a caramel macchiato and spending the afternoon at Starbucks writing. I've brought my laptop to Starbucks, but I have yet to compose a novel. I've used it for meetings with other bloggers about projects we were working on. Namely, the Lazy Days and BBQ series. If you missed it, you can click on the link to check it out.

Do people that take their laptop computers think their hipsters or do they just need to get out of the house? I love that this guy took a typewriter which has become obsolete. I learned to type on a typewriter which is definitely not hipster appropriate. I love antique typewriters and have one displayed in my office area. Hipster or not this photo makes me smile.

Date Created

2013/06/24

Author

queenie