My fox love began with an enamel bracelet with little gold fox heads on it I bought while vacationing in Seaside, Florida. I have now become enamored with Mr. Fox. Mr. Fox has been showing up in clothing, jewelry and home decor items. Many of you are aware that Iâ€™ve been a hug fan of owls the past few years. Owls have been very popular in home decor and fashion and now I have a feeling Mr. Fox is joining the ranks.

I fell in love with the above sweater from Old Navy and bought it for my daughter, but she said it was a little itchy. She has very sensitive skin and is very picky. Hmmâ€¦ I wonder who she gets it from? Weâ€™re both a little too old for the coin purse and scarf, but I thought they were too cute not to share. They would make a great gift and a fun knitting or crochet project.

On a recent trip to Target I found all sorts of fox serving pieces. I love the fox cocktail shaker and wood tray. I also love the fox art print on dictionary paper available from FabFunky on Etsy. All of the items Iâ€™ve featured can found by clicking on the links underneath each collage.

What do you think of Mr. Fox? Do any of these items make you smile?

The winners of the Taste of Home Cooking School Demonstration are Katie Martino and Christine McGovern. For those of you who participated thank you for leaving a comment. If you are still interested in purchasing a ticket for the event tomorrow click here.
