

Fluorescent Snowman

Description

default watermark

default watermark

Happy Monday! Snowmen make me smile! I had never come across a fluorescent snowman until last year. I'm not sure what inspired my daughter to add fluorescent paint to him. He started off with simple fluorescent buttons. As I watched from the window I thought to myself, that looks cute. I personally would have stopped there, but then she proceeded to give him hair. Blue hair at that! You can see what happens from this photo when you pour paint on top of a snowman. It trickles downward. Although he's not the most environmentally friendly snowman, he added some color to our crisp white backyard and my daughter continues to add color to my world.

I hope you have a colorful week!

If you're looking for some fun ideas to do in the snow. Check out my post on Chocolate Snowflakes.

Date Created

2014/01/20

Author

queenie

default watermark