

Love

Description

default watermark

Originally I had planned to do a great roundup of chocolate recipes Iâ€™ve been pinning on Pinterest the past few months, but I decided to keep things short and sweet since itâ€™s Valentineâ€™s Day. Call someone and tell them you love them or give someone a hug. Donâ€™t text, email or Facebook message them, actually talk to them or visit them in person. Remember what that was like? Social media are great for keeping in touch with friends and family, but sometimes people need to hear your voice or spend time with you in person if thatâ€™s possible. There is a lot that is communicated in person or through your voice that canâ€™t be translated through a computer.

If you're still interested in checking out some decadent desserts check out these two Pinterest boards:

- Recipes for the Chocoholic
- Bloggers Best Cakes, Cookies and Desserts

Some past Valentine's Day related posts:

- The Five Love Languages – Do you know what your love language is?
- Somebody Loves You Mr. Hatch – A wonderful children's book which is a must read!
- Valentine's Beverages

Have a Happy Valentine's Day and celebrate LOVE all year-round! I created the above image in waterlogue from a photo I had taken on my iPhone.

Date Created

2014/02/14

Author

queenie

default watermark