The addition of pears, pecans and cranberries give this chopped salad a touch of Autumn flavors. My friend Anne shared this Autumn Chopped Salad recipe with me at a fall soup swap. I love having soup and salad for lunch and it also makes an easy dinner meal. This Autumn Salad is so easy to throw together and is a nice change from a boring old romaine salad.

This recipe is also easy to customize according to your taste. You could use sliced almonds instead of pecans or apples in place of pears. The possibilities are endless.

When it comes to salads, I like lots of toppings. How about you? Are you a plain salad or lots of toppings kind of gal/guy?
