My friend Pam shared this White Chocolate Snack Mix with me years ago and itâ€™s a perfect treat to give to friends and neighbors during the holidays. There are several reasons why itâ€™s perfect.

Thereâ€™s no baking required which means you arenâ€™t a slave to the oven waiting on cookies to turn golden brown. I enjoy baking cookies during the holidays, but there are so many other things to do. Itâ€™s nice to have a few recipes that arenâ€™t time consuming.

This White Chocolate Snack Mix also makes a large quantity so you can give it to several people depending upon the size of your container. The mix easily fills two penny candy jars or one penny candy jar and two smaller jars like the one shown. I purchased the jars at Target, but you can find similar containers at Wal-Mart or craft stores. I'm going through a gold phase right now so I spray painted the lid to the penny candy jar gold.

I selected plain jars that can be used year round. I've gotten to a point in life where I have way more Christmas decorations than I need. There is something to be said for less is more. Food gifts are always a nice option for those who are at a point in life where they're downsizing and want to live simply. This white chocolate snack mix also packs well and keeps for at least a week which makes it a great option to mail to college students or extended family.

There are very few supplies required for this handmade gift in a jar other than the snack mix ingredients. I've provided a PDF file which you can print on card stock that contains the recipe and quote by Charles Schulz. Simply cut them out and mount them to some festive card stock. Punch a hole at the top of the tags and attach them to the container with ribbon or twine. Customize the tag to your liking. I found the Happy Holidays tags in Michaels dollar section. The recipe and quote gift tag can be downloaded here.

Ingredients

- 8 cups Crispix cereal
- 5 cups Cheerios
- 16 oz. jar dry roasted peanuts
- 16 oz. bag of M&M's™s
- 7 oz. bag Peppermint Dipped Snowflake Pretzels or regular pretzels
- 20 oz. pkg of white almond bark + 3 squares

Instructions

1. Mix cereals and peanuts together. If using regular pretzels mix them in too.
2. Melt entire package of almond bark plus 3 squares in the microwave. Start at 1 minute, stir and heat in 30 second intervals as needed. Do not overheat.
3. Pour white chocolate over cereal mixture and stir in M&M's™s and peppermint snowflake pretzels.
4. Spread on wax paper and cool for 1-2 hours.

If you're looking for more handmade gift ideas which are fairly inexpensive I've shared a how to on making a watercolor picture from an iPhone photo and how to make moss letters. I've given a moss letter of a family's last initial and this Lavender & Coconut Scrub as gifts in the past and both were a big hit.
